Julius Caesar Act 4 Scene 1

Antony These many, then, shall die. Their names are pricked. marked	Antony These are the ones who will be killed. Their names are marked.
Octavius [to LEPIDUS] Your brother too must die. Consent agree you, Lepidus?	Octavius [To LEPIDUS] Your brother must die, too. Do you agree, Lepidus?
Lepidus I do consent—	Lepidus I agree—

Julius Caesar Act 4 Scene 1

Octavius Prick him down, Antony.	Octavius Mark him down, Antony.
Lepidus Upon condition Publius shall not live, Who is your sister's son, Mark Antony.	Lepidus On the condition that your sister's son, Publius, also must not be allowed to live, Mark Antony.
Antony He shall not live. Look, with a spot I damn him.	Antony He will not live. See—with this mark I've sentenced him to death.

Julius Caesar Act 4 Scene 1

But, Lepidus, go you to Caesar's house. Fetch the will hither, and we shall determine How to cut off some charge in legacies.	But, Lepidus, go now to Caesar's house. Bring his will here, and we'll figure out a way to reduce his gifts to the people.
Lepidus What, shall I find you here?	Lepidus Will you be here when I get back?
Octavius Or here, or at the Capitol. Lepidus leaves	Octavius We'll either be here or at the Capitol. Lepidus leaves
Antony (to Octavius) This is a slight, unmeritable man, Meet to be sent on errands.	Antony He's an insignificant, and unworthy man—only fit to be sent on errands.

Julius Caesar Act 4 Scene 1

Is it fit, The threefold world divided, he should stand One of the three to share it?	When we've split rulership of the world into three parts, is it proper that he should be one of the three men to share it?
Octavius So you thought him. And took his voice who should be pricked to die In our black sentence and proscription.	Octavius You thought so. Besides, you listened to his opinion about who we should mark for death.
Antony Octavius, I have seen more days than you. And though we lay these honors on this man To ease ourselves of divers slanderous loads, He shall but bear them as the ass bears gold,	Antony Octavius, I've lived longer than you have. And though we're giving these honors to this man so that he carries the blame for the wrongs we're going to do, he'll carry these honors like a jackass carries gold.

Julius Caesar Act 4 Scene 1

To groan and sweat under the business, Either led or driven, as we point the way.	—groaning and sweating under the load, either led or pushed, as we direct the way he should go.
And having brought our treasure where we will, Then take we down his load and turn him off, Like to the empty ass, to shake his ears And graze in commons.	And once he's brought our treasure where we want, we'll relieve him of the load and put him out to pasture, like a jackass, to shake his ears and graze.
Octavius You may do your will, But he's a tried and valiant soldier.	Octavius You can do whatever you want, but he's an experienced and brave soldier.

Julius Caesar Act 4 Scene 1

Antony So is my horse, Octavius, and for that I do appoint him store of provender. It is a creature that I teach to fight, To wind, to stop, to run directly on,	Antony So is my horse, Octavius, and for that reason I give him a supply of food. My horse is a creature that I direct during a fight—to turn, to stop, to run straight ahead.
His corporal motion governed by my spirit, And, in some taste, is Lepidus but so. He must be taught and trained and bid go forth,	I control his movements. And, to some degree, Lepidus is nothing more than that. He has to be taught and trained and told what to do.

Julius Caesar Act 4 Scene 1

A barren-spirited fellow, one that feeds On objects, arts, and imitations, Which, out of use and staled by other men, Begin his fashion.	He's an empty sort of man, and he considers the trends and tastes that went out of fashion with other men long ago to be the utmost in style.
Do not talk of him But as a property.	Don't think of Lepidus as anything other than a tool for us to use.
And now, Octavius, Listen great things. Brutus and Cassius Are levying powers. We must straight make head. Therefore let our alliance be combined,	And now, Octavius, listen to more important things. Brutus and Cassius are building armies. We must immediately do the same. Therefore, we should combine our strength,

Julius Caesar Act 4 Scene 1

Our best friends made, our means stretched And let us presently go sit in council How covert matters may be best disclosed, And open perils surest answered.	confirm the support of our allies, and stretch our connections to their fullest reach. Let's now go discuss how we can find out what hidden dangers face us, and how to respond to those dangers we already know about.
Octavius Let us do so. For we are at the stake And bayed about with many enemies.	Octavius Let's do that, because we're surrounded by many enemies, like a bear chained to a stake and circled by howling dogs.
And some that smile have in their hearts, I fear, Millions of mischiefs.	And I fear that some of the people who smile at us actually mean to harm us.
