Mahatma Gandhi

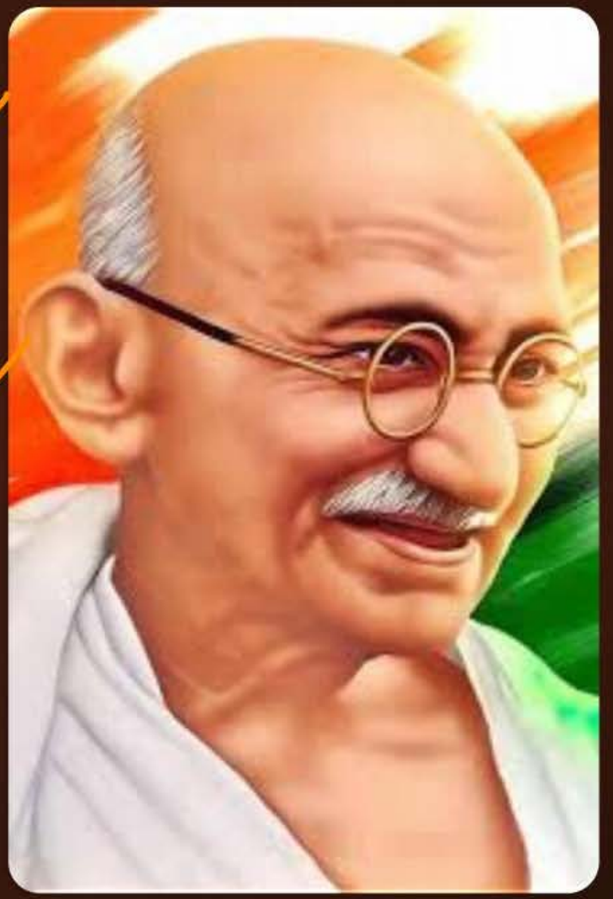

The Indian National Movement from 1915 to 1947 is also known as the Gandhian Era primarily because the period was dominated by Gandhi and his policies.

Gandhi: Early Life

- Mahatma Gandhi -born in 1869 at Porbandar in the Kathiawar district of Gujarat. His father was the Diwan of Rajkot State. 1888- went to England to study Law.
- Studies completed – came back to India and started practicing Law at Rajkot. From 1893 to 1914, he practised Law in South Africa.
- In South Africa, on a journey by train from Durban to Pretoria, he was forcibly thrown out of a first-class compartment, even though he had a valid ticket.
- Gandhi was hurt by the racial injustice and discrimination towards Indians in South Africa.

Gandhi: Early Life

- He formed the Natal Indian Congress to fight against the racist policies of the South African government.
- He developed the unique technique of Satyagraha here.
- Gandhi's Satyagraha was based on truth and nonviolence.

Gandhi: Early Life

- Gandhi returned to India in January 1915 and made an extensive tour of the country in the next three years.

Event	Year	Purpose	Outcome
Champaran Satyagraha	1917	To help peasants against the oppressive Tinkathia (indigo) system.	The British abolished the system and refunded part of illegal dues.
Ahmedabad Mill Strike	1918	To demand a 35% wage hike (Plague Bonus) for textile workers.	Gandhi used his first hunger strike in India; mill owners agreed to the hike.
Kheda Satyagraha	1918	To seek remission of land revenue due to crop failure and famine.	The government agreed to collect revenue only from those who could afford to pay.

Why did Mahatma Gandhi organize his first Satyagraha in Champaran, Bihar?

A. To protest against heavy land revenue collected during a drought

B. Ahmedabad Mill Strike
C. Kheda Satyagraha
D. Rowlatt Satyagraha

Gandhi: Early Life

The following methods were used by Gandhi during the freedom struggle:

- Satyagraha
- Principle Of Non-Violence
- Swadeshi
- Mass Movement

→ People should participate in large numbers

Non-Cooperation Movement-Meaning

- Way of protesting in which one does not co-operate with the evil-doer.
- Some important events forced Gandhiji to turn from a cooperator to a non-cooperator.
- Gandhiji said: Non-cooperation with evil is as much a duty as is cooperation with good.

Non-Cooperation Movement-Why It Started ?

- The Congress supported the British government during the First World War.
- India contributed significantly to the War by supplying men and materials in the hope that self-government would be granted to them by the British government by the end of the War. → power to rule within India
- However, after Britain won the First World War, it passed many Acts and laws (such as the Rowlatt Act) which aimed at suppressing the Indian National Movement.
- The Congress thus decided to launch the Non-Cooperation Movement.

Causes Leading to the Beginning of the Non-Cooperation Movement

Rowlatt Act

- To suppress the rising national sentiments in the country, the government passed the Rowlatt Act (March 18, 1919)based on the recommendations of the Sedition Committee led by Justice Sidney Rowlatt. It was passed by the Imperial Legislative Council despite the united opposition by the Indian members.

- The Act gave the government the following powers:
  - To arrest a person without any warrant
  - To try a person in seclusion (in camera trials)
  - To suspend the right of Habeas Corpus
  - Imprisonment up to 2 years

Causes Leading to the Beginning of the Non-Cooperation Movement

Rowlatt Act

- Gandhi launched a movement against this unjust Act.(6 April 1919) Shops were closed and workers of the railway workshop went on strike. Rallies protesting against this Act were organised in various cities.

IMPERIAL LEGISLATIVE COUNC

BLACK BILL NO. I "PASSED."

THE HON. MR. SARMA RESIGNS.

SOLEMN MOCKERY OF THE DEBATE.

[The Black Bill No. I was passed at Tuesday's meeting of the Imperial Legislative Council, 30 members voting for it and 9 against. Immediately after the passage of the Bill the Hon. Mr. B. N. Sarma of Behar offered his resignation. At the meeting the Black Bill No. II was also taken up. Sir William Vincent moved that the Report of the Select Committee on the revised Rowlatt Bill be republished. Mr. Patel and Mr. Malaviya moved amendments which the Government refused to accept.]

[From Our Correspondent.]

Delhi, March 18.

A meeting of the Imperial Legislative Council was held today. There was a very large attendance of visitors including Sir George Lloyd, Governor. The Viceroy presided.

On the Legislative voting upon Mr. Feuilloley's Corrigenda to put in question Mr. Patel raised point of order that the meeting could not be a new meeting but an adjourned meeting, such notice could not be valid. His Excellency said he was sure Hon. Members desired their question to be put and answered, and he therefore ruled that the notice given was in order.

Mr. Patel: I submit that it is open to me to suggest that the motion of which notice was given must be moved.

Sir William Vincent: I do not profess to advise that the Hon. member, if he so desired, should move that motion.

Mr. Patel said he only raised the question as it affected the privilege of the members of this Council. He did not desire to move it.

RESOLVED ON ASSENTING

Mr. Patel, supporting Pandit Malaviya's amendment, said three of the members of the Select Committee did not agree with the Select Committee and they regarded the Bill as entirely new. It is a grief to us that we have not been consulted. They merely observed themselves. Mr. Patel was proceeding to say

ROWLATT BILL [illegible]

Sir William Vincent said he hoped that the Bill as it stands with the amendments and resolutions which it embodies be passed.

SIR WILLIAM VINCENT

Sir William Vincent said he moved that the anarchical and revolutionary crimes Bill as amended be passed into law. In moving this motion he must say that the views expressed by the Government in spite of the important modifications they had made in the Bill and in spite of their attempt to meet the wishes of the Hon. members themselves, were not able to receive more support for this measure. He however hoped that some of the members would allow that the attitude of the Government was not unreasonable and that they had done their best to meet them in making important modifications. At the same time he quite realised the feelings of the Hon. members. This extreme course [illegible] was based on the apprehension that [illegible] power the evil might be [illegible]. There were possibly other members [illegible] were actuated by other motives but [illegible] address he wish to [illegible] members. He was addressing those minds to those whose co-operation [illegible] sought. He would like to remember [illegible] point from the point of view of the Government themselves and [illegible] the powers from their point of [illegible] and had done all they could to [illegible] them and had made changes in the [illegible]
