Who was Known as 'Father Of Indian Renaissance?

(a) Mahatma Gandhi

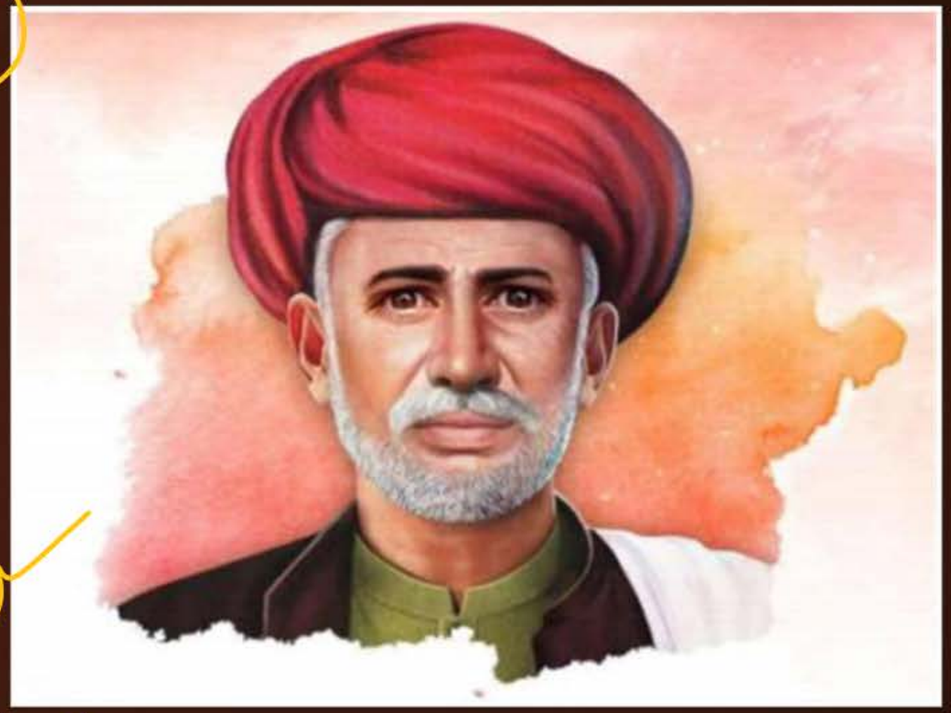

(b) Jyotiba Phule

(c) Rabindranath Tagore

(d) Raja Ram Mohan Roy

Jyotiba Phule

- Urban educated of so-called low caste- critical of Hindu religion and customs.
- Upliftment of women - considered women superior to men-pleaded for women education.
- He and his wife Savitri Bai Phule started one of the first Indian girls' school in Pune in 184.8 and second also in Pune in 1951

- In 1854 established a school for untouchables, started a private orphanage for widows- widow remarriage movement in Maharashtra.
- Considered the Indian caste system a symbol of slavery. In his book "Gulamgiri" he described the hardships and distress felt by the lower caste people.
- Founded "Satya Shodhak Samaj" in 1873- pleaded for securing social justice for the weaker sections of society.

Swami Dayanand Saraswati (Arya Samaj)

Swami Dayanand Saraswati founded the Arya Samaj in 1875. His teachings played a vital role in awakening the Indian masses and fostering a spirit of nationalism.

Key Contributions:

1. First Call for 'Swaraj': He was the first Indian reformer to use the term 'Swaraj' (self-rule) and gave the slogan "India is for Indians." This bold assertion directly fueled political awakening and national pride among the masses.
2. Socio-Religious Reforms: Giving the call to "Go back to the Vedas," he condemned orthodox Hindu practices like idol worship, animal sacrifice, and the rigid caste system based on birth, promoting social equality instead.
3. Emancipation of Women: He was a strong advocate for women's rights. He actively campaigned for women's education, supported widow remarriage, and strongly opposed social evils like child marriage and the purdah system.
4. Promotion of Education: He recognized that education was key to national progress. His followers established a network of Dayanand Anglo-Vedic (DAV) Schools and Colleges across India, which combined traditional Vedic learning with modern western sciences.

Swami Vivekananda (Ramakrishna Mission)

Swami Vivekananda was the foremost disciple of Ramakrishna Paramahamsa. He founded the Ramakrishna Mission in 1897 to promote his master's teachings and serve society.

Key Contributions:

1. Revival of Cultural Pride: His historic, spellbinding speech at the World Parliament of Religions in Chicago (1893) brought global recognition to Indian philosophy and Vedanta. This filled Indians with immense self-confidence and pride in their own cultural heritage, countering British claims of Western superiority.
2. Service to Humanity: He popularized the concept that "Service to mankind is service to God" (Daridra Narayan). The Ramakrishna Mission actively engaged in building hospitals, running schools, and providing extensive relief work during famines, floods, and epidemics.
3. Inspiring the Youth: He was a major inspiration for the national movement's younger generation. He urged Indian youth to cast off their weakness and develop physical strength, fearlessness, and moral courage, famously giving the call: "Arise, awake, and stop not till the goal is reached."
4. Champion of Social Equality: Vivekananda heavily criticized the caste system, untouchability, and religious superstitions. He preached universal brotherhood and the essential unity of all religions, helping to unify the Indian populace across social divides.
