Question

Nationalism is defined as feeling of oneness that emerges when people living in a common territory share the same

(i) historical background; (ii) political background;

(iii) cultural values; (iv) religion.

A (i), (ii) and (iii)

B (i), (iii) and (iv)

C (i), (ii) and (iv)

D (ii), (iii) and (iv)

Factors Leading To The Growth Of Nationalism

Economic Exploitation → To harm economically

- The main aim of British policies in India was to promote their own trade interests.
- They exploited the Indian economy to such an extent that India became one of the poorest countries within two centuries of British rule.
- Peasants (farmer) – Main Victims - High Land revenue and other taxes.
- Landlords and money lenders exploited them.

Tax

Due to the unjust economic policies of the British, many people including peasants and artisans suffered during British rule

- Artisans and craftsmen - By following the policy of 'Free Trade', the British destroyed the Indian textile and handicraft industries.
- While no import duties were levied on British goods entering India, high duties were imposed on Indian goods entering Britain.
- This policy ruined the income for artisans and craftsmen.
- Indian became a source raw materials for British industries and finished products.
- This policy crippled artisans and craftsmen.

- Working Class – The establishment of industries gave rise to the working class in India.
- The working class was exploited by factory owners who were generally Englishmen. Extremely low salaries were paid to factory workers.
- Educated Indians – The educated Indians were not appointed to high posts. High posts in civil and military services were only reserved for the British.
- Their chances of promotion were also weak.
- Indians felt that only solution of economic exploitation was to free themselves from the British rule

Repressing Colonial Policies

↳ Those policies that troubled Indians ↳ 2 | 3 →

- Grand Delhi Darbar [1877] – Organized by lord Lytton to proclaim Queen Victoria as the Empress of India – Lakhs of rupees spent on if while Indians were in the grip of a famine in Bengal

↳ there is no food

water

Local language.

- Vernacular Press Act [1878] – Introduced by Lord Lytton – did not allow Vernacular papers to publish any material against the British governments .

Local language

- It was not applicable to English newspapers.
- This Act was repealed (removed) by Lord Ripon in 1882.

→ If a newspaper was found publishing against govt
↳ it will be first warned, and then its machinery will be taken away.

- Indian Arms Act 1878 – Introduced by Lord Lytton → offence to carry arms without license but for Indians only and not for British.
- Indian Civil Service – Maximum age limit for the Indians reduced from 21 Years to 19 Years – made if difficult for Indians.
- Import duty on British textiles removed – harmed Indian industries – Unable to compete with British products.

Ilbert Bill 1883

- The Ilbert Bill was passed in 1883 by Lord Ripon.
- Prepared by C.P. Ilbert -Law member of viceroy's council - provided for the trial of British or European persons by Indian Judges - tried to introduce equality between Indian and British judges in India.
- However, because of strong protests by the Europeans, the Bill was withdrawn.
- This made the Indians angry who began to feel the need for organising themselves.

- Ultimately, Government withdrew the Bill- highlighted the racist attitude where interest of European community involved.
- All these repressive policies provided a stimulus to political agitations and quickened the pace of Indian Nationalism.

Socio Religious Reforms

↳ Changes in Society and Religion

- Impact of western education made educated Indians to realize the need to reform their religion and society.
- Educated Indians believed that process is possible only by accepting best of the east and west.

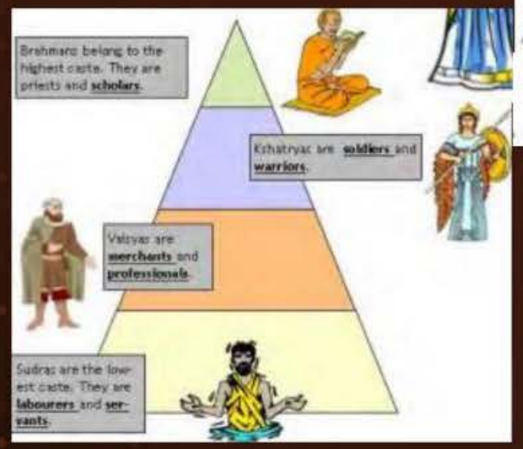

↳ best parts of eastern and western Culture

- Various socio – religious movements to abolish caste system, child marriage, dowry system, purdah system, sate and infanticide – social and legal inequalities, religious superstitions, idolatry, polytheism and hereditary priesthood.
